NPLA Members Ratchet Up Campaign to Overturn Roe v. Wade in Congress

Forty-Six Members of Congress Already On Board as Cosponsors

As the current legislative session of Congress gets into full swing, National Pro-Life Alliance members are expanding their no-holds-barred campaign to build support for a Life at Conception Act.

To date, National Pro-Life Alliance members have generated nearly two million petitions to pass a Life at Conception Act, a testament to the enormous grassroots support for the legislation.

Life at Conception Act Would Legally Establish Protection of Life for the Unborn

If enacted, this bill would dismantle the tragic Roe v. Wade Supreme Court decision, effectively eliminating abortion-on-demand.

The bill legally establishes that the protection of life guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution is vested in each baby boy and girl from the moment of conception.

By officially recognizing the personhood of unborn children, Congressman Duncan Hunter's (R-CA) Life at Conception Act (H.R. 552) is the basis for Congress to assume its responsibility to assure equal protection under law for each born and pre-born human in the United States.

Ironically, the legal basis for a Life at Conception Act is found in the very ruling the bill is designed to overturn.

Supreme Court Justice Harold A.

Blackmun wrote these words when he handed down Roe v. Wade:

"We need not resolve the difficult question of when life begins . . . the judiciary at this point in the development of man's knowledge is not in a position to speculate as to the answer.

"If this suggestion of personhood is established, the appellant's case, [i.e. "Roe" who sought an abortion] of course, collapses, for the fetus' right to life is then guaranteed specifically by the [14th] Amendment . . ."

NPLA Holds Congress Responsible for Defining When Life Begins

By this concession, the High Court left the legislative door wide open for repealing the very ruling that has sanctioned the killing of more than forty-five million unborn children.

"All that has to be done to nullify legalized abortion is passage of a law that states the universally known truth that life begins at conception, and Roe disintegrates," points out National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox.

However, the fight to pass this groundbreaking legislation is sure to be a difficult one.

The abortion industry and their allies in the national media and Congress realize the power of this bill and will fight it every step of the way.

But enacting a Life at Conception Act is the most feasible approach available to ending the abortion holocaust.

That is why National Pro-Life Alliance members and other pro-life activists must expand both grassroots and congressional support for a Life at Conception Act by lobbying their elected officials to get on board by cosponsoring the bill now.

The campaign to enact the recently passed Partial-Birth Abortion Ban demonstrated to the nation that the pro-life movement has both the clout and the stamina to persist and successfully enact pro-life measure in Congress.

Massive Nationwide Campaign Gained Passage of Partial-Birth Abortion Ban in Congress

National Pro-Life Alliance members mounted a massive nationwide campaign that produced more than one million petitions, letters, and post cards to Congress on behalf of the ban.

And thanks to the activism of those same National Pro-Life Alliance members, the Life at Conception Act had a record number of cosponsors in the House of Representatives in the last Congress.

The National Pro-Life Alliance is now looking to further increase that number in the current session.

Fox Calls on NPLA Members to Double Down on Congress to End Roe

“It is absolutely vital National Pro-Life Alliance members convince every Congressman and Senator who claims to embrace the pro-life mantle to get on board the Life at Conception Act,” said National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox.

“With heavy pressure from NPLA members, we plan to not only gain even more cosponsors for the bill in the coming session, but also to force a vote.

“A recorded vote on a Life at Conception Act would put every member of Congress clearly on record on the ultimate issue of the sanctity of life.”

Members should call their Senators and Congressmen at (202) 224-3121 and urge them to cosponsor the Life at Conception Act at once.

“The fact is even the judges who made abortion-on-demand the law of the land through Roe v. Wade handed Congress the power to right this wrong, by passing legislation to recognize the personhood of every human being, including those living in the womb.”

“Please insist your elected officials cosponsor the Life at Conception Act at once, and do all in their power to see that it reaches the floor for a vote,” Fox concluded.

Judicial Arrogance Intensifies National Pro-Life Alliance Push for Solid Pro-Life Judges

Fox Pledges to Double NPLA's Pressure for Uncompromising Nominees

With pro-life forces gaining ever-increasing support -- both among the public and among lawmakers -- it has become more and more evident that it is the judicial branch alone that is bolstering abortion-on-demand in America.

Since elected representatives across the country put forward more than 700 pro-life measures within the last year -- many of them successfully -- the abortion lobby has been forced to turn to its trusted allies in the courts to strike down laws protecting the unborn.

And the courts at all levels have been more than happy to oblige.

The out-of-control judicial activism that has swept the country highlights the dire need for judges that will stick to the Constitution rather than re-write it to suit their needs -- particularly on the United States Supreme Court.

Recent events have demonstrated the blatant contempt that many judges hold for the law when it conflicts with their contempt for the sanctity of life.

Activist Circuit Court Strikes Down Idaho Parental Involvement Law

In San Francisco, the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals recently struck down a popular Idaho law authorizing parental intervention for teen abortions, essentially invalidating similar laws in every state within its jurisdiction -- which includes the entire western portion of the United States as well as Alaska and Hawaii.

A Florida Court as well as the Federal District and Appeals Courts thumbed their collective noses at Congress and refused to abide by a law passed by the Congress and signed by the President intended to bring about a review of the Terri Schiavo right to life case.

If there was any doubt remaining that the judicial branch has become a tool of the abortion lobby, the National Abortion

Rights Action League (NARAL), one of the nation's largest pro-abortion lobbying organizations, put it to rest.

In a recently released study, NARAL bemoaned the fact that so many states have enacted legislation to protect the unborn, pointing out that state legislatures considered 714 pro-life measures -- an increase of 28 percent over the previous year's figure.

The report then candidly admits "There are only four states where both the majority of the legislature and the governor" are pro-abortion.

The report warns that Roe v. Wade itself is in jeopardy if President Bush succeeds in appointing pro-life judges to the Supreme Court.

NARAL's report admits that if that happens "nine states would quickly outlaw abortion, while another 19 could follow closely behind."

National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox points out that the report is very revealing of how the abortion industry relies heavily on judges to maintain abortion-on-demand.

"It's interesting that the abortion lobby admits that the vast majority of voters and their elected state legislatures reject Roe v. Wade and abortion-on-demand, but simultaneously cling to the myth that a majority of Americans support its radical pro-abortion agenda," Fox explains.

Overwhelming Pro-Life Legislative Victories Repeatedly Thwarted by Activist Judges

"If the extreme pro-abortion agenda of groups like NARAL were really in step with mainstream America, then state legislation advancing that agenda would be the order of the day all across the country.

"Instead, we see quite the opposite happening. Lawmakers -- who must answer to the people who elect them -- repeatedly pass pro-life legislation, while activist pro-abortion judges -- who are accountable to no one -- strike down any laws they disagree with as 'unconstitutional.'

"The abortion lobby knows that without an activist Supreme Court to invent a 'right' to abortion in Roe v. Wade, abortion would still be illegal today in nearly every state; and likewise -- if Roe were overturned tomorrow states would scramble to enact laws barring abortion," Fox continued.

NPLA Members Lead Battle to Overturn Roe v. Wade on Two Fronts

That's why the focus of the National Pro-Life Alliance's campaign to completely eliminate Roe v. Wade is two-fold.

First, National Pro-Life Alliance members have long been leaders in the battle to legislatively overturn Roe v. Wade by passing a Life at Conception Act.

Secondly, the National Pro-Life Alliance and its members are fighting to restore honest judges who will not attempt to invent the so-called "right" to kill unborn babies in the womb.

"So long as this judicial sham is allowed to stand, judge after judge will strike down even the most modest pro-life reforms, citing its invented right to kill," explained Fox.

With the appointment by President Bush of at least one Supreme Court nominee appearing more likely by the day, Martin Fox is stressing the importance of securing solid nominees who will vote to overturn Roe v. Wade.

Pro-Life Judges Should Not Be Taken for Granted, Warns NPLA President

But Fox stressed the importance of fighting both the battle for a Life at Conception Act and the war for quality judges since pro-life judges are not a foregone conclusion under Republican presidents.

In Roe the Supreme Court invented the "right" to kill unborn children. NPLA's two-pronged campaign would stop activist judges across the nation from using the erroneous ruling to strike down even the most modest pro-life measures such as bans on partial-birth abortion and parental intervention legislation.

“Past experience has shown that the abortion lobby and the media can put horrendous pressure on even the most well intentioned Presidents,” stated Fox.

“Without a mobilized pro-life movement, the pressures are weighty to nominate someone who is hoped to be pro-life, but without a clear record or commitment.

“This strategy has in the past given us judicial Pontius Pilots such as Souter, Kennedy and O’Connor who -- when the long-awaited opportunity came in 1992 to overturn Roe v. Wade, washed their hands of innocent blood and abandoned millions more babies to violent, grisly deaths.

“When pro-lifers enthusiastically helped elect Presidents Reagan and Bush Senior, this is not why they did it.

“And let’s not forget how, when Nixon’s first choices were defeated, he ended up nominating Harry Blackmun -- the main force behind Roe v. Wade and consequent abortion rulings.

“The complex realities of politics demand we maintain maximum vigilance today.

“That’s why,” Fox warns, “it’s crucial that the President knows now that he can count on major pro-life support for nominees who are not ashamed of their pro-life, pro-constitution position.”

NPLA Urges Bush to Appoint a Pro-Life Equivalent to Ruth Bader Ginsburg

In a letter to the President, Fox called on President Bush to nominate the pro-life equivalent to the radically pro-abortion Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg.

Before being appointed to the Supreme Court by President Clinton, Ginsburg served as general counsel of the rabidly pro-abortion American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and, just last year, lent her name to the pro-abortion National Organization for Women’s (NOW) Legal Defense and Education Fund, which often files briefs in Supreme Court cases involv-

Ginsburg’s pro-abortion position is so radical that she thinks that Roe v. Wade, which legalized abortion throughout all nine months of pregnancy for virtually any reason, didn’t go far enough.

Justice Ginsburg supports creating a constitutional right to taxpayer-funded abortions in all cases.

While most of President Bush’s nominees likely oppose Roe v. Wade and recognize it as bad law, the administration has released no public record of that fact.

As Fox explains, “With so little known about the President’s judicial nominees, it is very hard to mobilize dedicated pro-lifers to the cause of securing their nomination.

Senate Leader Frist Must Call Pro-Abortion Obstructionists to the Mat

“In order to secure solid judicial nominees that respect the right to life and the rule of law, Senate leadership must have the backbone to force the obstructionist pro-abortion minority to put up or shut up.

“If they want to deny a fair up or down confirmation vote to extremely well-qualified judicial nominees in the Senate based on a pro-abortion litmus test, force them to do it before the entire nation.”

Fox is urging Senate leadership to force the radical pro-abortion minority to carry on a genuine filibuster, holding the floor continuously -- night and day -- and bringing all other Senate business to a screeching halt until the issue is resolved.

For pro-abortion Senators to do so would cause an enormous spectacle and highlight before the American people the lengths to which radical pro-abortion Senators like Ted Kennedy (D-MA) and Hillary Clinton (D-NY) will go to please the rabid abortion-on-demand lobby.

Former Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle (D-SD) developed a reputation as an obstructionist for blocking judicial nominees -- as well as the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban.

In a close race, pro-lifers contributed to making Daschle the first Minority Leader in 52 years to be defeated on Election Day, losing to John Thune, who ran on a pro-life platform.

In the current political climate -- in which pro-life candidates enjoy an increasingly decisive advantage in elections -- pro-abortion radicals would undoubtedly pay a heavy price in 2006 for shutting down the entire Senate simply to maintain a radical pro-abortion stranglehold on the Supreme Court opposed by the overwhelming majority of American voters.

Furthermore, even if the Senate filibuster is successful in the short term for pro-abortion radicals, President Bush would still have the opportunity to make the abortionists pay a steeper price by making solid interim appointments to the court when the Senate is out of session.

So far, the President has utilized this strategy only once in the recess appointment of Judge William Pryor -- an outspoken critic of Roe v. Wade -- to the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals earlier this year.

Fox and NPLA Members Pledge Unprecedented Campaign for Pro-Life Judges

“The National Pro-Life Alliance has collected nearly 2 million petitions in favor of repealing Roe v. Wade and ending abortion-on-demand.

“This grass-roots army stands poised to mobilize its full weight behind uncompromising nominees to the Supreme Court,” says Fox.

“Once a nominee is put forward that is fearless in his or her determination to uphold the constitutional right to life, President Bush and Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist can count on the full force of this vast army in the battle to secure their nomination,” promised Fox.

NPLA Members Step Up Efforts to Save Babies Killed in Teen Abortions

NPLA-Drafted Legislation Would Give Parents the Right to Intervene

As NPLA members work to recruit original cosponsors for Congresswoman Marilyn Musgrave's (R-CO) legislation to give parents the right to stop abortions from being performed on their minor daughters, news headlines continue to highlight the dire need for congressional action to prevent abortionists and judges from trampling parents' rights all across the country.

According to published reports, on March 17 in Granite City, Illinois, a 14-year-old girl was called out from school by a woman posing as her grandmother.

The woman, who in reality was the mother of the male who had impregnated the girl, drove the girl to an abortuary without her parents' knowledge.

Police made an arrest at the abortion facility that day, but it was not the young man for his statutory rape.

Nor was it the woman posing as the girl's grandmother who was taken into custody for her act of fraud.

Illinois Woman Arrested for Trying to Stop 14-Year-Old Daughter's Abortion

Incredibly, it was the girl's mother who was arrested at the abortion mill, where she had driven under the suspicion that her daughter might have gone there to get an abortion.

The girl's frantic mother entered the horrendously misnamed Hope "Clinic" for Women and did not see her daughter in the waiting room, but found her name on the patient sign-in sheet.

But when she confronted staff at the facility, she was told that she could not prove that her daughter was there.

She began calling out for her daughter and crying out "Don't do it!"

Abortion Mill Staff to Mother: "You Have No Rights"

She was told by staff at the abortion facility "It's your daughter's rights, it's her body. You have no rights."

The staff then called police, who came and arrested the girl's mother.

Meanwhile, employees at the abortion mill whisked out the back door the woman posing as the girl's grandmother, thus abetting her efforts to hide her son's crime.

According to the girl's mother, police later told her that there was nothing they could do to intervene despite the mother's charge of statutory rape.

She was also told that while she did have the right to go into the abortion mill to talk to her daughter, she did not have the right to stop the abortion.

Unfortunately, Illinois is just one in a long list of states that have no laws allowing parents to stop an abortion from being performed on their minor daughter.

In these states, parents are at the mercy of abortion mills that profit from convincing young, vulnerable girls to abort -- without their parents even knowing they are pregnant.

And as revealed in a recent sting operation, abortionists and their staff routinely ignore or even actively cover up cases of statutory rape.

Although federal law requires abortion mill staff to pursue and report suspected cases of statutory rape to law enforcement, a sting operation that was recently carried out by Life Dynamics of Denton, Texas, revealed a concerted effort by abortuaries to ignore and even

Staff at the horrendously misnamed Hope "Clinic" for Women in Granite City, Illinois, stonewalled a mother trying to stop her 14-year-old daughter's abortion. They had her arrested as they snuck the mother of the young man who had impregnated the girl out the back door of the abortuary.

hide cases of statutory rape.

Eight hundred calls were placed by a woman to abortion mills nationwide over a ten-month period.

The woman posed as a thirteen year-old girl seeking an abortion who didn't want her parents to know she was having sex with her boyfriend, a twenty-two year old man.

Sting Reveals Widespread Cover-Up of Statutory Rape by Abortionists

Of the eight hundred abortion mills called in the phone sting, more than 90 percent of the facilities said they would perform the abortion or refer the girl to a different abortion mill that would.

Some of the abortion mill staff members even went so far as to instruct the girl to lie about her boyfriend's age when she came in to keep him from getting into trouble.

So with many states having no laws whatsoever to allow parents to stop -- or even be notified of -- their minor daughter's abortion, abortion providers like Planned Parenthood are literally making a killing performing abortions on vulnerable teenage girls who are pressured into having abortions without even telling their parents they are pregnant.

And under current federal law, parents can't do a thing about it.

Even in states that have parental involvement laws in place, judges exploit "judicial bypass" loopholes waiving the requirements and allowing the girl to get an abortion without her parents' knowledge.

Many courts have even gone so far as to strike down state parental involvement laws altogether.

Circuit Court Strikes Down Popular Idaho Parental Involvement Law

In one of the latest examples of judicial assault on state parental involvement laws, the 9th Circuit Court recently struck down an Idaho law giving parents the right to stop an abortion from being performed on their minor daughter.

On March 28, the United States Supreme Court rejected an appeal to overturn the 9th Circuit Court and reinstate the Idaho law.

The circuit court ruled that requiring parental intervention for teenagers was "unduly burdensome" on young mothers.

The 9th Circuit's horrendous ruling not only effects the state of Idaho, but every state within the court's jurisdiction -- which covers the entire western portion of the United States.

By virtue of the precedent it sets, the court's ruling essentially invalidates similar laws in all of these states and highlights the need for federal legislation giving parents in all states the right to intervene to stop abortions from being performed on their minor daughters.

"When parents in many states have no legal say in whether or not their teenage daughters undergo abortions, and a circuit court has the power to, in effect, summarily strike down existing parental intervention laws for every state within its jurisdiction, clearly an act of Congress is needed," explains NPLA President Martin Fox.

NPLA-Drafted Legislation Targets Activist Judges

National Pro-Life Alliance members are at the forefront of the battle to end this appalling license given exclusively to the abortion industry and restore the elemental authority due to parents in every state.

NPLA members are ratcheting up efforts to pass the NPLA-drafted Parental Notification and Intervention Act, which would give parents in all states the legal right to stop an abortion from being performed on their minor daughter and eliminate the loopholes being blatantly exploited by judges to render state laws useless.

A judge would be permitted to allow an abortion without notifying the parents only if he or she receives "clear and convincing evidence" of danger of physical abuse from a minor's parents if they are notified.

And since the Parental Notification and Intervention Act is federal legislation, it would apply to all fifty states, giving parents assurance that their young daughters would not be secreted away to a neighboring state to get an abortion without their knowledge.

NPLA members rallied in support of the Parental Notification and Intervention Act in the last Congress, gaining more than eighty cosponsors in the House of Representatives.

Now, as Congresswoman Marilyn Musgrave (R-CO) prepares to reintroduce the bill, NPLA members are lobbying hard to recruit original cosponsors for the bill.

With polling data confirming that nearly 80% of Americans support legislation

See 80% of Americans Support NPLA Parental Intervention ... page 7

Three 9th Circuit Court judges effectively invalidated parental intervention laws in the entire western United States.

80% of Americans Support NPLA Parental Intervention Measure

giving parents the right to stop teen abortions, parental intervention is clearly a winning issue for pro-life forces.

By forcing the issue in Congress, pro-lifers will give politicians no choice but to do the right thing and pass the Parental Notification and Intervention Act, or face the retaliation of the voters in the next election.

Martin Fox is calling on members to contact their Congressmen and insist that they sign on as original cosponsors of the Parental Notification and Intervention Act.

Fox Urges Members to Insist Their Lawmakers Cosponsor the Parental Notification and Intervention Act

“Let your Congressmen know that you are furious that millions of parents all across the country have no say in whether or not their daughter undergoes an abortion.

“Let them know that no judge should be allowed to take that right away from parents and that it’s the responsibility of Congress to ensure that they don’t,” added Fox.

“Until Congress acts, judges will continue to strike down, subvert and undermine parental involvement laws; sexual predators will continue to prey on our children with no fear of recompense with abortion mill staff acting as their willing accomplices.”

World Mourns the Loss of Pope John Paul II

Pro-Lifers Must Carry On Pontiff’s Vision for a “Culture of Life”

Millions of non-Catholics and non-Christians who oppose abortion and other assaults on human life were greatly strengthened by Pope John Paul’s unwavering leadership in defending the sanctity of human life -- which is why his death is mourned, and his life is celebrated, by more than members of the Catholic Church.

Perhaps the most consistent theme to Pope John Paul II’s message throughout his entire ministry was profound respect for human life.

No matter their faith, one has to agree that no other world figure has done more to cultivate a “culture of life” throughout the world than Pope John Paul II, the man who himself coined the phrase that so superbly defines the struggle that permeates society in the world today.

John Paul II spoke tirelessly and fearlessly in defense of the unborn and confronted world leaders across the globe, challenging them to enact policies to end the holocaust of abortion within their borders.

His firm grasp of the sanctity of life permeates his many public statements and his encyclicals will persevere eternally in Catholic doctrine to bare witness to the dignity and sanctity of each and every human life -- born and unborn.

Even as Cardinals met to elect John Paul II’s successor, the pro-abortion national media was already discussing what effect his death will have on the positions of the Catholic Church on issues such as abortion, wondering out loud whether the next pope will allow the Church to “change with the times.”

Yet, despite what must have been wishful thinking on the part of pro-abortion activists in the secular media, one thing is clear.

Respect for human life and opposition to the evil of abortion is firmly entrenched in Catholic doctrine, thanks in no small part to the late Pope John Paul II.

And the Catholic Cardinals sent a clear message to the world by electing Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, a strong vocal opponent of abortion who served as John Paul II’s leading defender of Catholic doctrine.

The world will not soon forget John Paul II -- the man who oftentimes seemed to stand against the world on its own behalf, and who set such an excellent example for those of us living in the midst of a culture so steeped in death, embracing every moment of life as a priceless gift from our Creator.

National Pro-Life Alliance members and pro-lifers of all faiths should take his life’s message to heart and with due fortitude continue to fight to protect the sanctity of life as he did so eloquently.

FDA Paves Way for On-Demand Chemical Abortion

New Plans Hatched for Dangerous Drugs Designed to Kill

Despite the fact that 1.6 million babies are murdered in abortuaries each year, abortion advocates are determined to make it even easier to murder the unborn.

The fact that women must go to an abortion mill for an abortion requires deliberation and creates some possibility for counseling and reflection.

But by using abortion drugs, a woman can avoid any required cooling off period and have an abortion in the secrecy of her own home at any time.

In May of last summer, pro-abortion leadership tried to make drugs for chemical abortions available over the counter, but pressure by National Pro-Life Alliance members and other pro-life citizens stalled their efforts. But now abortion advocates have stealthily revived their plans to gain FDA approval of the deadly drug, often known as Plan B (the sanitized name of the chemical abortifacient).

Continuing the Legacy of RU-486 Abortion Drug

In testimony before Congress, former acting commissioner for the Food and Drug Administration Lester M. Crawford admitted that the FDA has quietly moved forward with plans for over-the-counter chemical abortion drugs and predicted that the Plan B abortion drug will be approved:

“The science part is generally done. We’re just down to what the label will look like.”

The key component of Plan B, Levonorgestral, chemically aborts unborn babies after conception. It can cause extremely serious side effects to the mother, including infertility, blood clots, and ectopic pregnancies.

The “Plan B” abortion drug is the next step in the trend started in 2000 under the Clinton Administration with the approval of RU-486.

Skirting the rules to get a quick approval without public opposition, the FDA ignored its own guidelines and approved the drug without substantial safeguards and testing.

By using a fast-track approval process designed for drugs to cure life-threatening illnesses, RU-486 sped through the approval process in six months instead of the normal process of at least six years.

Thus the foot was in the door for the approval of other dangerous forms of chemical abortion.

That’s why National Pro-Life Alliance staff and members are mobilizing to oppose all forms of chemical abortion.

National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox points out that, “any drug that was conjured up for the sole purpose of destroying innocent human life has no place in a decent society.

“The purpose of this drug is to poison and kill unborn babies.

“Even when this pill works as intended without ‘complications,’ its result is a dead human being.

“This drug is nothing more than an attempt by the abortion industry to make the murder of the unborn more expedient.”

Urgent Action Needed to Stop Spread of Abortion Drugs

Because of the outcry against RU-486 by members of the National Pro-Life Alliance and other pro-life citizens across America, Congress is now considering legislation that would withdraw RU-486 from distribution.

Introduced by Jim DeMint (R-SC) in the Senate and Roscoe Bartlett (R-MD) in the House of Representatives, the bill is commonly known as “Holly’s Law,” in memory of 18-year old Holly Patterson who died in 2003 of complications from taking RU-486.

National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox is urging National Pro-Life Alliance members to contact their representatives in the House and Senate in favor of S.511 and H.R.1079.

Senators and Congressmen can be reached at (202) 224-3121.

The FDA has quietly continued its plans to make the so-called “Morning After” chemical abortion pill as readily available as bubble gum to women and teenage girls.
