NPLA-Drafted Bill Would Give Parents the Right to Stop Teen Abortions

Initial Member Activism Builds Hefty Support in House of Representatives

With many state legislatures passing bills giving parents the right to be notified of and intervene before their daughter's abortion, abortionists have increasingly resorted to loopholes in state laws.

By transporting minors to states without protections or shopping for judges who automatically grant judicial bypass, abortionists have again and again been able to skirt state parental involvement laws protecting minors.

In response to this alarming trend, on March 27, Congresswoman Marilyn Musgrave (R-CO) introduced the National Pro-Life Alliance-drafted Parental Notification and Intervention Act.

H.R. 1489 would give parents the right to be notified of and stop an abortion from being performed on their minor daughter.

The Parental Notification and Intervention Act highlights a growing double standard.

Parental Involvement Currently Denied in Life or Death Decision

Parents must give permission for their underage daughter to get her ears pierced at the mall. The same is true if the girl is to be given an aspirin by a school nurse.

Furthermore, no doctor is permitted to perform any surgery or medical procedure on a minor without first obtaining a parent's approval so long as the minor's life is not in immediate danger.

The government rightly recognizes the importance of parental involvement in their teenage child's life in all of these instances.

However, under current court decisions, abortionists operate with impunity and are free to kill the baby growing inside a teenage girl's womb without the girl's parents even knowing about it.

NPLA Fights to Guarantee Protection for Unborn in All Fifty States

National Pro-Life Alliance members are in the forefront of the battle to end this appalling license given exclusively to the abortion industry and restore the elemental authority necessary in order to parent.

According to Martin Fox, President of the National Pro-Life Alliance, three-quarters of the elected state legislatures have passed laws protecting parental involvement.

Clearly, the federal Parental Notification and Intervention Act is the next logical step for the pro-life movement.

"Its huge popularity will play an important role in building support for our ultimate goal – a Life at Conception Act ending abortion-on-demand," points out Fox.

As was the case with the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban, the American public has consistently displayed strong support for laws protecting parental intervention. A 1996 Gallup survey demonstrated that 74% of Americans supported requiring that parents be given the right to intervene before an abortion is performed on a minor.

Two years later a CBS/New York Times poll had the figure at 78%.

More recently, a Los Angeles Times survey showed that the level of support for such legislation had risen to an astounding 82%.

Michael Muench, Legislative Director of the National Pro-Life Alliance, records a message by Congresswoman Marilyn Musgrave (R-CO). Musgrave and NPLA are mobilizing national support for legislation to give parents the right to be notified of and stop an abortion on their minor daughter.

See Protecting Parental Participation in Abortion Decision... page 2

Protecting Parental Participation in Abortion Decision Overwhelmingly Popular

Overwhelming Majority of All States Have Passed Parental Involvement Laws

This overwhelming national support has translated into legislative action in 44 states as pro-life legislators have passed laws requiring parental involvement before an abortion is allowed to be performed on a minor.

In ten of those states, activist judges have blocked the enforcement of the law passed by the state legislature.

NPLA Bill Would Dramatically Reduce National Abortion Rate

Predictably, after enacting parental notification legislation, states have seen dramatic declines in their teen abortion rates:

Virginia's overall abortion rate dropped 20% in the first five months after passage of parental notification.

In Minnesota, the teen abortion rate declined by an average of 28% between the years 1981-1986 following the adoption of its parental notification law.

Texas saw its teen abortion rate drop 30% after enacting parental notification.

Like these state statutes, the National Pro-Life Alliance's bill requires parental notification before a minor's abortion.

However, since the Parental Notification and Intervention Act also gives either parent the power to stop the abortion, the Parental Notification and Intervention Act would clearly save even more infants' lives than these examples.

Pro-Life Alliance Fights to Close "Judicial Bypass" Exploited by Pro-Abortion Judges

Currently, without a federal law in place, even in states with parental notification, parents are frequently left completely in the dark because a child abuser will evade the law by simply taking the young girl to another state without such a law and obtain an abortion there.

JoAnne Bennett of Pennsylvania found this out the hard way when she learned that her fiance had been molesting her thirteen year old daughter.

He impregnated the girl twice but had hidden his crime by driving the girl from Pennsylvania (a state that requires parental notification) to Maryland (a state that does not) and was able to have both babies aborted.

Unfortunately, state laws are many times struck down or rendered ineffective by judges who exploit a loophole by granting "judicial bypass" to minors so routinely that the law is rarely actually enforced.

The National Pro-Life Alliance is fighting to close such loopholes that allow parental involvement laws to be trampled by pro-abortion judges.

In order to avoid problems experienced under many state laws, the Parental Notification and Intervention Act provides a well-defined standard to be met before any judge may grant an exemption to any of the bill's requirements.

A judge would be permitted to allow an abortion without notifying the parents only if he or she receives "clear and convincing evidence" of danger of physical abuse from a minor's parents if they are notified.

Congresswoman Musgrave Proves Herself a Formidable Champion of the Unborn

This legislation is not only popular with the American people, but thanks to the strong lead of its sponsor, Congresswoman Marilyn Musgrave, it has earned a remarkable surge of support in the House of Representatives as well.

In fact, as of press time for this issue of LifeLine, the bill has garnered 74 cosponsors in the House, and that figure continues to grow.

National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox had high praise for the work of the bill's sponsor.

"Congresswoman Marilyn Musgrave" said Fox "won a reputation in her days as a Colorado State Senator for being in the forefront of every major piece of state pro-life legislation.

"Now, as a Member of Congress she has proven to be a tireless fighter for the rights of the unborn."

Martin Fox is urging every National Pro-Life Alliance member to contact their Congressman and Senators toll free at 1-800-839-5276 and urge them to cosponsor the Parental Notification and Intervention Act (H.R. 1489) today.

-  Enforcement of parental involvement law is totally blocked
-  Parental involvement laws often thwarted by pro-abortion judges via bypass

Parental involvement laws are so popular that forty-four state legislatures have passed laws at least partly protecting parental involvement before an abortion. Unfortunately pro-abortion judges or attorneys general have sweeping powers to prevent enforcement of those laws.

Pro-Life Forces Must Defend Pro-Life Judges

Senate Minority Shut Out Judicial Nominees Who Support Life and Defend the Constitution

After losing control of the Senate and the White House, the abortion-on-demand movement has launched a no-holds-barred campaign to keep from losing control of the ultimate source of their power -- the judicial branch.

Led by Minority Leader Tom Daschle (D-SD), pro-abortion radicals in the Senate have taken the unprecedented step of filibustering and preventing votes on a series of Bush nominees to the federal courts.

It is feared that these vicious smear campaigns are only a warm-up for expected vacancies in the U.S. Supreme Court.

NPLA Members to Demand Action from Senate

In response, the National Pro-Life Alliance is working closely with pro-life members of Congress and leaders of other groups to build popular support for judges who refuse to invent new rights in the United States Constitution like the so-called "right" to privacy.

In addition to the work with pro-life allies on Capitol Hill, the opening salvo of a grass-roots campaign is underway as the National Pro-Life Alliance gathers petitions to the United States Senate demanding action on President Bush's pro-life nominees to the federal bench.

National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox expects the campaign to have a great impact:

"The debate on Partial-Birth Abortion exposed the out-of-step positions of radical pro-abortion politicians and helped end the political careers of some of the most rabid supporters of abortion-on-demand, including Jean Carnahan (D-MO) and Max Cleland (D-GA)," stated National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox.

"Likewise, we're going to see politicians fall when the American people discover the radical agenda and unscrupulous tactics of the abortion industry against highly-qualified nominees to the federal bench," warned Fox.

Abortion Industry Needs a Packed Court to Thwart Public Opposition to Abortion

The abortion lobby is terrified that they will lose their grasp on power if a judge is named to the Supreme Court that does not agree with the fabricated "right" to an abortion in the Roe v. Wade decision which imposed abortion-on-demand on every state in the union.

Extremist groups such as the National Organization for Women (NOW), Planned Parenthood, and the National Abortion Rights Action League (NARAL) realize that they were handed the legalization of abortion by an unelected, activist Supreme Court in 1973.

Supreme Court Vacancies Likely During Bush's Watch

Now, as the current battles over the President's judicial nominees have become increasingly mired in politics, the stakes are soon likely to be raised with the possibility of vacancies in the United States Supreme Court.

Chief Justice William Rehnquist, 78, and Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, 73, are widely believed to be on the verge of retirement.

It is a very real possibility that President George W. Bush will have the opportunity to fill two or more vacancies on the High Court.

Provided Rehnquist does not step down, or is replaced by a pro-life justice, Roe v. Wade could possibly be overturned if O'Connor steps down and is replaced by a pro-life nominee.

In addition to a petition campaign to the Senate, Martin Fox announced a series of measures to make sure that pro-abortion Senators pay a heavy political price for their villainy.

National Pro-Life Alliance members will flood the White House with declarations of support encouraging President Bush to stay the course - allowing the President to demonstrate his popular support.

Fox has also put every member of the Senate on notice that stonewalling pro-life judicial nominees will earn them a high place on NPLA's list for target advertisements and mailings.

If rumors of Chief Justice William Rehnquist and Justice Sandra Day O'Connor retiring prove to be true, President Bush will most likely have the opportunity to appoint two Supreme Court Justices to the bench.

“Even now,” announced Fox, “we are preparing a series of print and electronic advertisements to run in the home states of fanatical pro-abortion Senators.”

NPLA Ads Will Expose Opposition to Judges for Petty, Unwarranted Prejudice

According to NPLA President Martin Fox, these ads will ask voters if they support their Senator's attempts to force judicial nominees to swear allegiance to an unconstitutional and unlimited “right” to an abortion.

The ads are a response to Senators who have obstructed a vote on Judge Priscilla Owen simply because she correctly ruled that judges do not have unlimited power to hide a minor's abortion from her parents.

Rabid pro-abortion partisans have been refusing an up or down floor vote on Justice Owen's nomination for the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals since September of 2001.

They have likewise maintained a filibuster against Mr. Miguel Estrada's nomination to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals when he refused to pledge support of the judicially invented “right” to abort.

The Federal Judiciary: Devout Catholics Need Not Apply

Even more outrageous were Senator Ted Kennedy's efforts to bar Alabama Attorney General Bill Pryor from the Eleventh Circuit solely because he is a devout Catholic who has acknowledged that he has deeply held personal views on the subject of abortion.

Because of the pro-abortion minority's obstruction of nearly half of all of President Bush's nominees, twenty-five courts have declared “judicial emergencies” due to the back load of cases where judgeships have been vacant for years.

Until now, a determined pro-abortion minority has been able to get away with its campaign of judicial obstruction because the nominees were for less visible district and appeals court positions.

But Fox adds that “if pro-lifers are mobilized, the abortion industry will not be able to get away with similar tactics against Supreme Court nominees, where interest runs high.”

Partial-Birth Abortion Ban Set to Become Law

Forthcoming Victory Important Step Toward Ending Abortion-on-Demand

Following a massive six year grass-roots letter writing and petition campaign by members of the National Pro-Life Alliance and other pro-lifers nationwide, the stage is now set for the passage of a ban on partial-birth abortion.

As predicted by pro-life leaders earlier this year, both the House and the Senate have passed bills outlawing partial-birth abortion.

Although the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban had passed previous Congresses only to be vetoed by President Clinton, the current occupant of the White House is eagerly waiting to fulfill a campaign promise to sign the bill into law once it reaches his desk.

Filibuster Fizzled After NPLA Members Generated Over One Million Petitions

The bill will be sent on to the President once it clears a joint House/Senate conference committee, where differences in the House and Senate versions of the bill are to be ironed out.

National Pro-Life Alliance members -- who generated over one million petitions in favor of the ban -- played a large part in the hard fought political battle over the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban.

Massive Public Outcry Got the Attention of Lawmakers

“Although a determined Senate minority can kill a bill with a filibuster, in this case they didn't dare try seeing the huge grass-roots outpouring.

“National Pro-Life Alliance members can be proud of their leadership role in making this law possible,” added Fox.

It is no secret why roughly 80% of all Americans oppose the brutal procedure. Partial-birth abortion is a procedure that is performed on viable pre-born babies merely as a form of birth control.

In a partial-birth abortion procedure, the abortionist forces early dilation and labor, then, with only the head of the living child still within the birth canal, the abortionist stabs the child near the base of its skull, scrambles and removes its brains, and delivers the child dead.

Public Rejects Media's Misrepresentations, Overwhelmingly Opposes Procedure

Despite media claims to the contrary, thousands of these abortions are performed annually on healthy late-term babies with healthy mothers.

Truly, it is hard to fathom how the life or health of a mother could possibly be preserved by killing her child while she is in the process of giving birth. Yet that is exactly what happens in a partial-birth abortion.

President Bush made a campaign promise to pro-lifers that he would sign the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban into law if it reaches his desk.

With the public pressure brought to bear on Congress by National Pro-Life Alliance members and other pro-lifers, it was only a matter of time until justice prevailed and this horrible procedure was banned once and for all.

By Fighting to End Partial-Birth Abortion, NPLA Members Also Helped End Political Careers

When the ban is signed into law, it will mark the first federal legislation since Roe v. Wade curtailing abortion.

The ban is also a significant political victory and it provided pro-lifers with plenty of ammunition to use against radical pro-abortion politicians who supported the vile procedure.

Pro-abortion extremists in Congress found themselves in the hot seat at election time when the National Pro-Life Alliance mailed its survey results exposing their support for partial-birth abortion.

With the generous support of its members, NPLA also ran hard-hitting television ads in the home states of politicians who were on record as supporting partial-birth abortion.

Ads, Lobby Mailings Highlighted the Gruesome Nature of Partial-Birth Abortion

And due to the pro-life Senators elected in states like Missouri, Minnesota, Colorado and Georgia where NPLA members funded advertisements and pro-life survey results mailings, Hillary Clinton, Ted Kennedy and the abortion industry lost their majority in the Senate.

National Pro-Life Alliance Warns Congress: Ban Is a Good Start, But Not Nearly Enough

This ouster of radical pro-abortionists in the Senate stripped Tom Daschle (D-SD) of his Majority Leader title and ended his roadblock of the ban.

NPLA President Martin Fox called upon NPLA members to redouble their efforts against abortion-on-demand.

“While passing the ban will be a major political victory for the pro-life movement,” said Fox, “the law only restricts this one particularly barbaric form of abortion.”

Victory Fuels NPLA Campaign for Significant Pro-Life Measures

“Abortionists still have at their disposal plenty of other ghastly methods.

“That’s why pro-lifers must use momentum from this political victory to gain a true pro-life majority in Congress and overturn Roe v. Wade by passing a Life at Conception Act.

“And pro-lifers can also undermine abortion-on-demand by passing other important lifesaving legislation, such as the Parental Notification and Intervention Act [H.R. 1489].

National Pro-Life Alliance members should call House Speaker Dennis Hastert and Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist at 1-800-839-5276. Urge them to make it a top priority to get the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban through the conference committee and onto President George W. Bush’s desk. ❤️

PARTIAL-BIRTH ABORTION KILLS THOUSANDS EVERY YEAR

NPLA television ads held politicians’ feet to the fire over their support for partial-birth abortion.

Life at Conception Act Would Use Constitution to Overturn Roe v. Wade

Support Grows to Define Life as Beginning at Conception

Congressional and public support for a Life at Conception Act continue to grow, and it is very simple to understand why.

Most Americans would be thoroughly surprised if a pregnant woman were to say to them “Put your hand on my stomach and feel my fetus kick,” or “My fetal tissue is due in two months.”

Despite Pro-Abortion Propaganda, Americans Believe Life Begins at Conception

The fact is people realize when they see a pregnant woman that there is a living baby boy or girl inside her womb waiting to be born into the world.

Yet the abortion industry and their apologists in the media uniformly refer to a preborn child as a “fetus” rather than a baby in an attempt to dehumanize the unborn and lure mothers facing a crisis pregnancy into aborting their child against their own motherly instincts.

Yet even with the big national media presenting the abortionists’ message in the most favorable light, public opinion polls time and again have revealed that the public just isn’t buying the abortionists’ attempt to portray unborn babies as a “blob of fetal tissue.”

Poll Shows Most Believe that Conception Is the Beginning of Life

The most recent poll on this issue conducted by Newsweek and published as a cover story on June 9 again showed a clear majority believes that life begins at the moment of conception. That bodes well for ultimate passage of a Life at Conception Act by the Congress.

Passage of a Life at Conception Act would reconcile the popular view of when life begins with federal law, and finally end the legalized slaughter of unborn children that has existed since the flawed 1973 Roe v. Wade Supreme Court decision.

Supreme Court Admits: If Personhood is Established, Roe Collapses

Supreme Court Justice Harold Blackmun wrote these words when he handed down Roe v. Wade:

“We need not resolve the difficult question of when life begins...the judiciary at this point in development of man’s knowledge is not in a position to speculate as to the answer.

“If this suggestion of personhood is established, the appellant’s case, [requesting legalization of abortion-on-demand] of course, collapses, for the fetus’ right to life is then guaranteed specifically by the [14th] Amendment...”

By this concession, the High Court left the legislative door wide open for repealing their rulings that have sanctioned the killing of more than forty million babies.

Historically, the Supreme Court has accepted and enforced Congress’ definition of “person.” The Court has even accepted Congress’ definition where the term “person” was applied to non-beings such as corporations.

By specifically defining when life begins, a Life at Conception Act would thus dismantle the tragic Supreme Court decision Roe v. Wade, thereby effectively eliminating abortion-on-demand.

NPLA Pushing Hard for Legislative Approach to Ending Abortion-On-Demand

A Life at Conception Act simply states the commonly known fact that life begins at the moment of conception, thereby enforcing for the unborn the right to life guaranteed to all Americans.

Since replacing pro-abortion judges on the Supreme Court could take years and an amendment to the Constitution is nearly impossible to pass, a Life at Conception Act is the most plausible way to end abortion-on-demand.

Because a Life at Conception Act enforces the Fourteenth Amendment rather than adding a new amendment to the Constitution, it would only require a simple majority vote in both houses,

See Congress Must Fulfill its Duty...page 7

The United States Constitution grants Congress alone the power to define who is a person, entitled to equal protection of life and liberty under the Fourteenth Amendment.

Congress Must Fulfill its Duty and Enforce 14th Amendment

rather than the extremely difficult two-thirds majority required to amend the Constitution.

Life at Conception Act Offers Best Hope of Ending Abortion-On-Demand

Congress now finds itself at a crucial point in history. Just as they did with slavery, they must again right an enormous wrong created by the Supreme Court by passing a Life at Conception Act.

In February of this year, Congressman Duncan Hunter (R-CA) introduced a Life at Conception Act in the House of Representatives. The bill has since been revised in such a way that it would also explicitly ban the harvesting of human embryos for medical research.

His bill is expected to be reintroduced with the updated language in the House of Representatives shortly.

Petitions to Congress for a Life at Conception Act from National Pro-Life Alliance members are now approaching the one million mark.

This landmark petition drive has prompted NPLA President Martin Fox to thank members for their faithful work to repeal Roe v. Wade.

“Members of the National Pro-Life Alliance have been at the forefront of the battle for a Life at Conception Act nationally.

“NPLA members’ petitions and contributions have breathed new energy into the pro-life movement. No longer are pro-lifers merely attempting to tiptoe around the Supreme Court.”

NPLA Members Lead Fight to End Abortion-On-Demand

“We are tackling the Court head on with a renewed vision to end – not just regulate – abortion-on-demand,” states Fox.

With record numbers of pro-life allies now in both houses of Congress, Fox is urging National Pro-Life Alliance members to call their Congressmen and Senators today at 1-800-839-5276 and tell them to support and cosponsor H.R. 579.

Peterson Murder Highlights Humanity of Unborn

Radical Pro-Abortionists Exposed for Their Disdain for Human Life

On April 14 the remains of Laci Peterson and her unborn son, Connor were discovered on a shoreline in California.

Since this past Christmas Eve, Americans have been closely following the disappearance of Laci, who was pregnant with her first child.

The country has collectively wondered how the alleged killer, Laci’s husband Scott, could bring himself to violently kill his wife and their unborn son.

Scott Peterson has been arrested and charged with two separate counts of murder – one for Laci, and one for their unborn son, Connor.

Two Victims = Two Crimes

California is one of over twenty states that has a law allowing a murderer to be charged with a double homicide for killing a pregnant woman and her unborn child.

Inevitably, pro-abortion groups and their friends in the national media have been placed in an extremely awkward situation.

It is very difficult for a reporter to refer to Laci Peterson’s baby as a “fetus” -- a term used invariably by the national media when referring to an unborn child -- when she had already proudly chosen a name for her son.

Radical Pro-Abortionists Back Lesser Charge for Killer

Before the remains of Laci and Connor had even been properly laid to rest, Mavra Stark, president of the Morris County, NJ chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) had already publicly denounced a double murder charge for the perpetrator.

The double homicide charge carries with it the death penalty, which a single charge does not. Apparently Stark would rather reduce a murderer’s punishment than give pro-lifers a perceived political victory.

Her comments shocked the world and exposed NOW’s radical pro-abortion agenda when she declared on national television:

“If it [referred to by everyone else as Conner] was unborn, then I can’t see charging [Scott Peterson] with a double-murder. If this is murder, well, then any time a late-term fetus is aborted, they could call it murder.”

Presumably Stark is concerned that people will arrive at the conclusion that killing a late-term baby is wrong. Apparently she does not realize that most people have already arrived at that conclusion.

Pro-Abortion Groups Fear Pro-Life Sentiment, Deny Baby Connor’s Existence

Because most people realize that there were two separate bodies found on the shoreline that day, and that not one but two people were killed, there is naturally a huge public outcry for protection of unborn victims of violence.

While twenty states do recognize the crime of murder of an unborn baby, there is no federal law protecting unborn children in cases of assault that fall under federal law.

In response, legislators are renewing their efforts to pass the Unborn Victims of Violence Act.

Currently bills are pending in the House of Representatives (H.R. 1997) and the Senate (S. 1019).

National Pro-Life Alliance Executive Director Mary King supports a law to protect unborn children from violence.

However, King warned members of Congress that the current version of the Unborn Victims of Violence Act "while certainly well intentioned, falls short of a better, achievable solution for protecting the unborn from violence."

To Avoid Congressional Affirmation of Roe, NPLA Urges Key Amendments

The bill as it currently exists specifically exempts prosecution "for conduct relating to an abortion for which the consent of the pregnant woman has been obtained ..."

Thus, if passed, the bill is an authorization by Congress for abortion -- something that to date only the unelected Supreme Court has done.

To avoid legitimizing Roe v. Wade, King urged pro-life members of Congress to pass an amendment clarifying that "nothing in the bill shall be construed to create or recognize any right to an abortion, or to sanction, approve of, or expand in any way the legality of abortion."

The NPLA amendment would also protect state statutes that defend the unborn from criminal violence.

A second problem with the bill as currently written is that the death penalty may not be imposed for the murder of the child even though that may be the prescribed penalty for the murder of the mother.

Without debating the merits of capital punishment, in her letter to Congress, National Pro-Life Alliance Executive Director Mary King points out that "it is at best a questionable precedent to establish a separate, lesser punishment for the murder of an unborn baby compared to the same offense against the mother."

Final Bill Should Avoid Setting Lesser Standard for Unborn

"This is a clear double standard and gives credence to the pro-abortion charge that the unborn are second class citizens," continued King.

The National Pro-Life Alliance and its members are now urging Congress to treat
