

Pro-Lifers Mobilize for Impending Battle Over Supreme Court

NPLA Members Gearing Up to Fight for Pro-Life Nominees

As this issue of LifeLine goes to press, NPLA members and supporters all over the country are holding their collective breath hoping that President Bush will appoint a solidly pro-life justice to fill the vacancy left by pro-abortion Justice Sandra Day O'Connor.

But, of course, pro-lifers should not automatically assume that because the Republican Party platform has a strong pro-life plank, that all appointments by Republican presidents will be pro-life.

In fact, history has shown that this can be a dangerous assumption.

The current makeup of the Supreme Court is 6-3 in favor of Roe v. Wade.

Of those six justices that support Roe, four (including retiring Justice O'Connor) were appointed by Republican presidents.

That's why, although National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox is hopeful that George W. Bush won't make the same mistake, he is urging members to be vigilant.

In preparation for this battle, thousands of NPLA members have already written letters and post cards to President Bush and Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist urging them to give top priority to nominating and confirming someone with unquestionable credentials defending the Sanctity of Life.

National Pro-Life Alliance members realize the importance of this fight given the thirty-two years the pro-abortion movement has held the Supreme Court in a death grip in order to maintain abortion-on-demand throughout all nine months of pregnancy.

With the July 1 resignation of Justice Sandra Day O'Connor from the Supreme Court, pro-lifers are hopeful that the pro-abortion death grip may finally be breaking.

President Bush has made repeated promises to appoint nominees to the Court in the mold of Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas, who will strictly interpret the Constitution.

Pro-Abortion Justice O'Connor Resigns from Supreme Court

Since Justice O'Connor is pro-abortion, a pro-life replacement would bring pro-life forces within one vote of overturning Roe v. Wade, the 1973 Supreme Court decision that legalized abortion.

But as the shockwaves from O'Connor's resignation continue to radiate from the Beltway, rumors abound at another resignation on the High Court.

It was widely believed that Chief Justice William Rehnquist, who suffers

Senate abortion zealots are bent on denying the confirmation of any nominee that does not support their radical abortion-on-demand agenda and have set their sites on President Bush's nominee to the Supreme Court before a candidate has even been announced.

from thyroid cancer, would announce his retirement. Whether or not he will step down is anyone's guess.

Rehnquist sat on the court in 1973 and voted with the minority against Roe v. Wade and has consistently ruled against abortion-on-demand in subsequent cases.

If Rehnquist does in fact retire, President Bush will have to nominate -- and the Senate confirm -- two pro-life Supreme Court Justices.

NPLA Ratchets Up Fight for Pro-Life Nominees

In anticipation of a vacancy on the Supreme Court, National Pro-Life Alliance members have sent thousands of post cards and petitions to President Bush and Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-TN) encouraging them to do everything in their power to ensure that any and all nominees to the Supreme Court will defend the Constitution and vote to defend the right to life of the unborn.

As National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox pointed out in a letter to President Bush, one such nominee who stands out from the crowd is Judge Edith Jones.

Jones, who was appointed by President Reagan, serves on the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals and has very strongly criticized the Roe decision as an "exercise of raw judicial power."

Since pressures will be great for the president to nominate a woman to replace Justice O'Connor -- who was the first woman ever to serve on the Supreme Court -- Edith Jones would make an excellent candidate.

Of course, winning Senate confirmation on any nominee that doesn't worship at the altar of abortion-on-demand will be an extremely difficult task in the current political climate.

Radical pro-abortion Senators have already declared war on the president's first nominee to the Supreme Court -- and that nominee has yet to be named.

Just hours after news of Sandra Day O'Connor's retirement broke, leading pro-abortion Democrats like Edward Kennedy (MA) and Charles Schumer (NY) rushed before the cameras to warn the president to name a "moderate" to fill O'Connor's seat on the High Court.

It was reported that Schumer was overheard on his cell phone vowing to "go to war" over the nominee no matter who it is.

Pro-abortion Senate Democrats are threatening an unprecedented filibuster against nominees to the court that don't accept Roe's preposterous claim that to kill an unborn child in the womb is a constitutional right.

NPLA Promises Full Backing for Pro-Life Nominee

While National Pro-Life Alliance members nationwide stand shoulder-to-shoulder with millions of other pro-lifers in going all out in support of pro-life judicial nominees, President Bush would find it difficult to count on that support if the nominee he chooses to put forward has not demonstrated a clear opposition to Roe v. Wade.

Alberto Gonzales, for example, has been rumored to be a very likely candidate to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court because of his close friendship with President Bush.

Martin Fox has been very outspoken in opposition to a Gonzales nomination because of his public statements that Roe v. Wade is settled law and has been quoted as saying that "The law is whatever the Supreme Court says it is."

Pro-Lifers United in Opposition to Possible Gonzales Nomination

As news of Justice O'Connor's resignation broke, National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox wrote to President Bush encouraging him to put forward a strong pro-life nominee and vowing to go all out to get such a nominee confirmed to the Supreme Court.

"The National Pro-Life Alliance's 600,000 members stand ready to go all out in support of a solid nominee to fill the coming vacancy on the High Court who will enforce the Constitution rather than re-write it to suit his or her political leanings," Fox's letter read.

Fox continued: "But I must tell you -- our members are very concerned about rumors that your choice to fill the vacancy on the court is likely to be Attorney General Alberto Gonzales.

"... Any nominee who views Roe as 'settled law' and would put its precedent before the clear meaning of the Constitution -- as does Mr. Gonzales -- is by definition categorically unqualified to sit on the Supreme Court ..."

NPLA Readies Grassroots Machine for Appointment of Pro-Life Nominee

"The ball is in the president's court," states Fox.

"In our last membership survey, National Pro-Life Alliance members assured me that they will stand behind solid pro-life nominees 100 percent."

The National Pro-Life Alliance's Telecommunication Center is on alert pending the announcement of President Bush's first Supreme Court nominee.

Upon the announcement of a worthy candidate, NPLA staff will kick into high gear to mobilize National Pro-Life Alliance members nationwide and commence a full-scale emergency offensive to take back the court from pro-abortion extremists.

"This moment marks a pivotal point in the 32-year struggle to save the unborn from the savagery of abortion," declared Fox.

"We look to our president to appoint a nominee to the Supreme Court that will vote to restore the Constitution, send Roe back to the dark corners from which it emerged, and stop the incessant outpouring of innocent blood from the myriad of abortuaries that feed like a cancer on the very soul of our nation."

Fox urged every National Pro-Life Alliance member to call their Senators today at 202-225-3121 and demand that they support pro-life nominees to the Supreme Court who will defend the Constitution against revisionist pro-abortion activists.

NPLA Members Intensify Push for Life at Conception Act Following Congressional Hearings

Plaintiffs in Landmark Abortion Cases Testify for Overturning Roe

National Pro-Life Alliance members for years have led the fight to end the 32-year cloud that has lingered over America, consuming the lives of more than 45 million unborn babies.

While NPLA members have also joined with millions of other pro-life Americans in advancing legislation to regulate abortion and protect the unborn in any way possible – the principal focus of the Alliance and its members remains the passage of a Life at Conception Act.

Such legislation would eliminate abortion-on-demand by overturning the court decision that ushered in the abortion holocaust.

Ironically, the legal basis for a Life at Conception Act is found in the very ruling the bill is designed to overturn.

Life at Conception Act Legislatively Defines When Life Begins

Former Supreme Court Justice Harold A. Blackmun wrote these words when he handed down Roe v. Wade:

“We need not resolve the difficult question of when life begins . . . the judiciary at this point in the development of man’s knowledge is not in a position to speculate as to the answer.

“If this suggestion of personhood is established, the appellant’s case, [i.e. “Roe” who sought an abortion] of course, collapses, for the fetus’ right to life is then guaranteed specifically by the [14th] Amendment . . .”

By this concession, the High Court left the legislative door wide open for repealing the very ruling that has sanctioned the killing of more than forty-five million unborn children.

Already this year, National Pro-Life Alliance members have made it possible to generate an additional 175,000 petitions to Congress from newly recruited pro-life activists around the country.

Now, amid Congressional hearings on the effects of legalized abortion, National Pro-Life Alliance members are redoubling their efforts to pass a Life at Conception Act and eliminate abortion-on-demand once and for all.

Senate Committee Hears Testimony on Horrendous Effects of Roe

On Thursday, June 23, a Senate panel held hearings on the effects of the now infamous 1973 Roe v. Wade Supreme Court decision.

The Roe v. Wade case, coupled with a similar case dubbed Doe v. Bolton, legalized abortion in the United States at any stage of pregnancy for virtually any reason.

Thirty two years after the Supreme Court settled their cases by inventing a “right” to abortion that exists nowhere in the Constitution, the Senate panel heard testimony from the plaintiffs from both cases.

Norma McCorvey (“Roe”), and Sandra Cano (“Doe”) -- now both converted pro-life advocates -- testified about the horrific effects brought about by the legalization of abortion. Both have filed motions in court to have their decisions overturned.

NPLA Members Ratchet Up Pressure for Legislation to Overturn Roe v. Wade

Senator Sam Brownback (R-KS), who presided over the hearing, called the question of when life begins “the central issue of our day.”

“Roe v. Wade ushered in abortion-on-demand and so long as this outrageous and

A Life at Conception Act would leave Roe v. Wade dead in the water. A mere recorded vote on the bill in Congress would expose “pro-life” politicians who are afraid to rock the boat.

NPLA Executive Director Mary King, backed by 2.5 million petitions from NPLA members, has met with Roscoe Bartlett (R-MD) and scores of other Congressmen to recruit cosponsors and secure a vote on the Life at Conception Act.

unconstitutional farce is allowed to stand, the unborn will remain vulnerable to slaughter at the hands of abortionists,” said National Pro-Life Alliance Executive Director Mary King.

“In Roe v. Wade, the Supreme Court flatly refused to deal with this central issue of when life begins in order to invent a “right” to abortion.

“That’s why NPLA members are pushing Congress to pass a Life at Conception Act declaring what science has long since proven – that life begins at the moment of conception,” adds King.

Life at Conception Act Most Feasible Means of Ending Abortion-On-Demand

A Life at Conception Act would legally establish that the protection of life guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution is vested in each baby boy and girl from the moment of conception.

By officially recognizing the personhood of unborn children, Congressman Duncan Hunter’s (R-CA) Life at Conception Act (H.R. 552) is the basis for Congress to assume its responsibility to assure equal protection under law for each born and pre-born human in the United States.

Even if pro-life forces are successful in replacing pro-abortion Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O’Connor -- who is retiring -- with a pro-life Justice, this will still not tip the balance of the Supreme Court against Roe v. Wade.

So passage of a Life at Conception Act remains the most feasible means of ending abortion-on-demand.

However, the fight to pass this groundbreaking legislation is sure to be a difficult one.

The abortion industry and their allies in the national media and Congress realize the power of this bill and will fight it every step of the way.

That is why National Pro-Life Alliance members and other pro-life activists are expanding both grassroots and congressional support for a Life at Conception Act by lobbying their elected officials to get on board by cosponsoring the bill now.

Bolstered by the enormous support in favor of a Life at Conception Act from National Pro-Life Alliance members across the country, NPLA Executive Director Mary King has been meeting with scores of Congressmen -- petitions in hand -- to urge them to cosponsor the Life at Conception Act.

NPLA Members and Staff Lobby Congress for Life at Conception Act

“Member activism is absolutely essential if we hope to be successful in passing a Life at Conception Act to overturn Roe v. Wade,” says King.

“Members of Congress listen much more closely when they know that their constituents demand that they act decisively to end abortion-on-demand – NOT just regulate it.”

Focusing first on Congressmen who claim to be pro-life on the National Pro-Life Alliance’s Candidate Survey, Mary King and National Pro-Life Alliance staff are lobbying hard to reach a critical mass of support for the bill in Congress.

“It is absolutely vital National Pro-Life Alliance members convince every Congressman and Senator who claims to embrace the pro-life mantle to get on board the Life at Conception Act,” said Mary King.

“With heavy pressure from NPLA members, we plan to not only gain a record number of cosponsors for the bill in the current session of Congress, but also to force a vote.

A Recorded Vote on Life at Conception Act Would Expose Stealth Abortion Apologists in Congress

“A recorded vote on a Life at Conception Act would put every member of Congress clearly on record on the ultimate issue of the sanctity of life,” says King.

Members should call their Senators and Congressmen at (202) 224-3121 and urge them to cosponsor the Life at Conception Act at once.

“The fact is even the judges who made abortion-on-demand the law of the land through Roe v. Wade handed Congress the power to right this wrong by passing legislation to recognize the personhood of every human being, including those living in the womb.

“Please insist your elected officials cosponsor the Life at Conception Act at once, and do all in their power to see that it reaches the floor for a vote,” King concluded. ♥

NPLA Members Double Down in Fight to Protect Unborn Babies of Minors

NPLA Bill Introduced to Give Parents Veto Power Over Teen Abortions

With many state legislatures passing bills giving parents the right to be notified of and intervene before their daughter's abortion, abortionists have increasingly resorted to loopholes in state laws in order to keep up their profitable business of peddling abortion to minors.

By transporting minors to states without protections or by shopping for judges who automatically grant judicial bypass, abortionists have again and again been able to skirt state parental involvement laws protecting minors.

In response to this trend, on June 17, Congresswoman Marilyn Musgrave (R-CO) reintroduced the National Pro-Life Alliance-drafted Parental Notification and Intervention Act.

H.R. 2971 would give parents the right to be notified of and stop an abortion from being performed on their minor daughter.

Public Outrage Fuels Fire for Parental Intervention

Public outrage and pressure for a Parental Notification and Intervention Act have soared following a series of shocking real-life horror stories like the one reported in the previous issue of LifeLine in which an Illinois abortion mill recently had a mother arrested for trying to talk her 14-year-old daughter out of having an abortion at the facility.

The girl, an apparent victim of statutory rape, was called out from school and driven to the abortuary -- without her parents' knowledge -- by the mother of the young man who impregnated her.

Sadly, since Illinois has no parental intervention laws, the girl's parents were powerless to stop the abortion from being carried out on their own daughter, a fact that was certainly not lost on the woman attempting to hide her son's crime by driving the victim to the abortion mill that day.

Without parental intervention legislation in place, teenage girls are left at the mercy of abortionists who willingly perform abortions on young girls, no questions asked.

Parental Intervention Bill Tackles Widespread Cover-Up of Statutory Rape by Abortionists

Even more outrageous is the growing mountain of evidence indicating that abortion mill staff not only fails to report cases of statutory rape, but in some cases actively impede investigations of statutory rape by law enforcement authorities.

And as revealed in a recent sting operation, abortionists and their staff routinely ignore or even actively cover up cases of statutory rape. Although federal law requires abortion mill staff to pursue and report suspected cases of statutory rape to law enforcement, a sting operation that was recently carried out by Life Dynamics of Denton, Texas, revealed a concerted effort by abortuaries to ignore and even hide cases of statutory rape.

Eight hundred calls were placed by a woman to abortion mills nationwide over a ten-month period.

The caller posed as a thirteen year-old-girl seeking an abortion who didn't want her parents to know she was having sex with her boyfriend, a twenty-two year old man.

Of the eight hundred abortion mills called in the phone sting, more than 90 percent of the facilities said they would perform the abortion or refer the girl to a different abortion mill that would.

Some of the abortion mill staff members even went so far as to instruct the girl to lie about her boyfriend's age when she came in to keep him from getting into trouble.

In Kansas, Attorney General Phill Kline has launched an investigation into abortions performed on at least 90 girls in 2003. Public records indicate that girls as young as 10 years of age obtained abortions in Kansas in 2003.

Under Kansas law, any girl under 14 who is impregnated is a victim of statutory rape and the sexual predator can be charged with a felony crime.

As part of an investigation into the rapes of these teenage girls, Kline has subpoenaed their records, but the abortion mill so far refuses to comply and will not turn over the records.

NPLA Members Fight to Guarantee Protection for Unborn in All Fifty States

National Pro-Life Alliance members are in the forefront of the battle to end this appalling license given exclusively to the abortion industry and restore the elemental authority necessary in order to parent.

According to Martin Fox, President of the National Pro-Life Alliance, three-quarters of the elected state legislatures have passed laws protecting parental involvement.

But in ten of these states, activist judges have blocked the enforcement of the law passed by the state legislature.

Because of the hostile treatment these state laws have received, clearly a federal Parental Notification and Intervention Act is the next logical step for the pro-life movement.

"The issue's huge popularity will play an important role in building support for our ultimate goal -- a Life at Conception Act ending abortion-on-demand," points out Fox.

Because of the wide public support for protecting minors from the horrors of abortion, merely forcing the pro-abortion politicians to fight against parental intervention will expose them as the extremists they are and will do serious damage to them politically.

For example, after the national battle to pass the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban, scores of pro-abortion extremists who dared to stand in the way of the pro-life surge went down to defeat for their efforts.

In that battle, National Pro-Life Alliance members joined legions of other pro-lifers by deluging Congress with more than 1.2 million petitions in favor of the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban, thrusting the issue to the forefront of the national debate and forcing Congress to act.

Public Support for Parental Intervention Continues to Skyrocket

Because of the widespread support among the public for parental intervention laws, with another massive grassroots campaign behind it, the Parental Notification and Intervention Act could benefit from the same circumstances that the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban did and it too, could pass Congress.

A 1996 Gallup survey demonstrated that 74% of Americans supported requiring that parents be given the right to intervene before an abortion is performed on a minor.

Two years later a CBS/New York Times poll showed the figure had risen to 78%.

More recently, a Los Angeles Times survey showed that the level of support for such legislation had again risen to 82%.

Parental Intervention Would Save Lives and Dramatically Reduce National Abortion Rate

Even with the many loopholes inherent in state laws, states have seen dramatic declines in their teen abortion rates after enacting parental notification legislation:

Virginia's overall abortion rate dropped 20% in the first five months after passage of parental notification.

In Minnesota, the teen abortion rate declined by an average of 28% between the years 1981-1986 following the adoption of its parental notification law.

Texas saw its teen abortion rate drop 30% after enacting parental notification.

Like these state statutes, the National Pro-Life Alliance's bill requires parental notification before a minor's abortion.

However, since the Parental Notification and Intervention Act also gives either parent the power to stop the abortion and limits the "judicial bypass" loophole, the Parental Notification and Intervention Act would clearly save even more infants' lives.

Pro-Life Alliance Fights to Close "Judicial Bypass" Exploited by Pro-Abortion Judges

Currently, without a federal law in place, even in states with parental notification, parents are frequently left completely in the dark because a child abuser will evade the law by simply taking the young girl to another state without such a law and obtain an abortion there.

Unfortunately, state laws are many times struck down or rendered ineffective by judges who exploit a loophole by granting "judicial bypass" to minors so routinely that the law is rarely actually enforced.

National Pro-Life Alliance members are fighting to close such loopholes that allow parental involvement laws to be trampled by pro-abortion judges.

In order to avoid problems experienced under many state laws, the Parental Notification and Intervention Act provides a well-defined national standard to be met before any judge may grant an exemption to any of the bill's requirements.

The Parental Notification and Intervention Act would give parents the right to protect their daughters and grandchildren from the horrors of abortion.

A judge would be permitted to allow an abortion without notifying the parents only if he or she receives "clear and convincing evidence" of danger of physical abuse from a minor's parents if they are notified.

NPLA Members Mobilize to Gain New Record Number of Cosponsors

This legislation is not only popular with the American people, but thanks to the outpouring of support from National Pro-Life Alliance members and the strong leadership of its sponsor, Congresswoman Marilyn Musgrave, it earned a remarkable surge of support in the previous session of Congress with a total of 82 cosponsors.

National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox vows that the Alliance will not relent until Congress acts decisively to stop the abortion industry's criminal enterprise that rakes in blood money hand over fist by preying on teens and actively covering up the crimes of child rapists to keep the money rolling in.

"Abortionists fight tooth and nail to keep parents out of this life or death decision, substituting themselves as the final arbiters of vulnerable teenage girls, while at the same time refusing to cooperate in investigations of known child rapists.

"We must send a clear message to Congress that we will not tolerate inaction while an entire industry aids known felons and kills our grandchildren with absolute impunity," said Fox.

NPLA President Calls on Members to Demand Action on Parental Intervention

"As with the brutal partial-birth abortion procedure – if pro-abortion radicals in Congress refuse to take action on the abortion industry's shameless assault on our nation's children, let them explain it to the voters.

Fox warns: "The political landscape is riddled with the remains of politicians who carried the banner of the abortion industry into the ranks of the outraged public and paid the ultimate political price."

Martin Fox is urging every National Pro-Life Alliance member to contact their Congressman and Senators at 202-224-3121 and urge them to cosponsor the Parental Notification and Intervention Act (H.R. 2971) today.

NPLA Members Gear Up for Final Chapter in Fight for Partial-Birth Abortion Ban

Appeals Court Rules Ban Unconstitutional, Supreme Court Brief Readied

Barely had the ink dried on the 8th Circuit Court's opinion overturning the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban when Martin Fox, President of the National Pro-Life Alliance, vowed an all-out fight to have the ban upheld in the Supreme Court.

"NPLA members are accustomed to the no-holds barred approach used by the abortion industry to oppose every pro-life initiative at every stage no matter how staunchly the public supports it.

"But members of the National Pro-Life Alliance are ready and eager to fight on that battlefield too. Our members generated more than 1.2 million petitions in favor of the Ban and, if necessary, we will collect double that number on our amicus brief to the Supreme Court," promised Fox.

Partial-Birth Abortion Ban Outlaws Killing Babies During Birth

The ban outlawed the late-term partial-birth abortion procedure developed by Ohio abortionist Martin Haskell, in which a baby is delivered almost entirely only to have its skull punctured and brains suctioned out by an abortionist.

While pro-abortion cheerleaders in the national media continue to claim that the procedure is very rare and only performed in extreme cases, Haskell admits that the vast majority of partial-birth abortions he performs are on healthy women with healthy, viable babies.

The ban on partial-birth abortion has not been enforced since being signed into law because of lawsuits filed by abortionists in three states immediately upon its passage.

NPLA Members Join Amicus Brief to Supreme Court in Partial-Birth Abortion Case

All three courts have ruled the ban unconstitutional, citing a lack of an adequate exception for the "health" of a mother. However, such an exception as used by judges would render the law useless as courts in the past have defined "health" to mean virtually anything, including the mother's "emotional well-being."

Since its inception a decade ago, members of the National Pro-Life Alliance have been on the front lines in the fight to pass legislation banning partial-birth abortion.

Members of the Alliance generated more than 1.2 million petitions to Congress in favor of the ban on partial-birth abortion, playing a crucial role in breaking the threatened filibuster by Senators Kennedy and Clinton.

In anticipation of the upcoming Supreme Court challenge on the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban, thousands of NPLA members signed on to the National Pro-Life Alliance's Amicus Brief to the Court in defense of the ban.

The legal brief will send a powerful message to the Court: pro-lifers are watching and will not allow the will of 80% of the public and a two-to-one majority in Congress to be overridden by a handful of unelected, activist pro-abortion judges.

Pro-Lifers Soundly Defeat Measure to Fund Abortion

U.N. Denied Millions of U.S. Tax Dollars Over Support for Forced Abortions

Pro-life forces have again successfully defeated yet another shameless attempt by pro-abortion radicals in Congress to force American taxpayers to fund abortion.

In June, pro-life lawmakers in Congress soundly defeated an amendment by pro-abortion Congresswoman Carolyn Maloney (D-NY), which would have overturned what has become known as the "Mexico City Policy."

As one of his first actions as president, George W. Bush reinstated the Mexico City Policy, which was originally enacted by President Ronald Reagan.

The policy bars any United States tax dollars from being sent to groups that perform or promote abortion abroad.

The United Nations Population Fund (UNPF) has for years provided financial and technical aid to governments and agencies that promote abortion.

In China, for example, the communist government has imposed a rigid one-child limit per family, which is often enforced by coercing pregnant women into abortions.

Due to the cultural preference for boys that exists in China, the forced abortion policy has resulted in the killing of at least 50 million unborn baby girls in China alone -- with millions more babies aborted worldwide.

And pro-abortion politicians in America once again tried to raid U.S. tax dollars to pay for this atrocity.

Rep. Carolyn Maloney's amendment was just the latest in a long string of attempts by pro-abortion radicals in Congress to raid taxpayer money to fund abortion both at home and abroad.

The 233-192 vote to defeat Maloney's amendment was an improvement over the last vote on the Mexico City Policy in Congress, in which pro-life forces defeated a similar amendment by a razor thin margin of 219-216.

Support for UNPF, which supports forced abortion overseas, reveals the hypocrisy of self-styled pro-"choice" members of Congress. Their allegiance is to abortion, not choice -- and they think that all of America should be taxed to pay for abortion.

The United Nations as a whole embraces a dangerous philosophy of population control, and uses this to rationalize its policy of vigorously promoting abortion and so-called "family planning services" across the entire globe.

Apparently oblivious to the naked irony, the United Nations promotes abortion as a solution to child mortality, insisting that child mortality will be reduced if there are fewer living children who then might get sick and die.

United Nations Bars Pro-Life Groups from Key Abortion Meeting

At the end of June, hundreds of organizations convened at the United Nations for discussions with the General Assembly regarding the upcoming Millennium Summit +5 population conference.

All major pro-life groups that attempted to attend the meeting, which could affect international policy on abortion, were barred from doing so.

The United Nations' actions confirmed what pro-life organizations that lobby at the U.N. have suspected for years: that the organization has been trying to come up with a method of shutting them out of discussions regarding abortion.

"After consistently losing elections for nearly a decade, pro-abortion extremists are still bent on sneaking through legislation to fund their deadly agenda, hoping the American people aren't paying attention," warns National Pro-Life Alliance Legislative Director Michael Muench.

"Pro-lifers must remain vigilant and constantly remind their leaders in Congress that they will not tolerate and will certainly not pay for the killing of innocent and defenseless unborn babies."

Pro-life forces in Congress defeated the latest raid on millions of U.S. tax dollars to fund abortion through the United Nations.
