Partial-Birth Abortion Ban Victory Creates Momentum to Overturn Roe v. Wade

Life at Conception Act Clearly Best Means to Pro-Life Victory

With the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban now successfully passed in Congress and signed into law by President George W. Bush, National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox is stepping up his call to all pro-lifers to take the next logical step and use the current momentum to pass a bill that would end abortion-on-demand.

“The pro-life message resonates now with the American people more than it ever has since that dreadful day in 1973 when the Supreme Court invented the right of a woman to kill her unborn child -- for any reason -- at any point throughout pregnancy,” explains Fox.

A Life at Conception Act would legislatively overturn Roe v. Wade by defining that life begins at the moment of fertilization.

As readers of LifeLine know, Congressman Duncan Hunter (R-CA) has introduced a Life at Conception Act in the House of Representatives.

National Pro-Life Alliance members have been lobbying hard to gain a record number of cosponsors for the bill.

H.R. 3069 uses the Supreme Court’s own language in Roe v. Wade itself to overturn the Court’s tragically flawed decision legalizing abortion-on-demand in all fifty states.

Roe v. Wade Decision’s Own Language Basis for Life at Conception Act

In writing the majority decision in the case of Roe v. Wade, Supreme Court Justice Harold Blackmun wrote:

“We need not resolve the difficult question of when life begins...the judiciary at this point in development of man’s knowledge is not in a position to speculate as to the answer.

“If this suggestion of personhood is established, the appellant’s case [requesting legalized abortion] of course, collapses, for the fetus’ right to life is then guaranteed by the [14th] Amendment...”

By passing a Life at Conception Act defining the unborn as persons, Congress would establish the personhood of the unborn and thereby achieve equal protection for the unborn under the 14th Amendment.

With the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban now passed by Congress and signed by President Bush, NPLA members now look to capitalize on the current political momentum by stepping up efforts to pass a Life at Conception Act.

Martin Fox is pleased with the commitment and activism of National Pro-Life Alliance members and is urging them to keep the pressure on Congress to cosponsor and hold hearings on Duncan Hunter's Life at Conception Act (H.R. 3069).

"Many leaders in Washington owe their jobs to pro-life voters.

"We need to remind them why we sent them to Congress and urge them to live up to their responsibility to protect the unborn."

National Pro-Life Alliance members are stepping up their efforts to pass a Life at Conception Act and have generated over 300,000 additional petitions in favor of the bill in just the last six weeks.

NPLA's Direct Mail and Television Ads Counter Pro-Abortion Media Assault

"Poll after poll has shown the majority of Americans are strongly opposed to the concept of abortion-on-demand and that a majority believe that life begins at the moment of conception," states Fox.

"For three decades the national media has hidden facts, distorted the truth, and even fabricated claims in its campaign of distortion aimed at promoting the abortion-on-demand agenda.

"They have served as lapdogs of the abortion industry in its attempt to perpetrate the greatest fraud in history on the American people.

NPLA Members Exposed Extremism of Abortion Movement with PBA Debate

"With such a hostile media, the National Pro-Life Alliance's targeted television ads and direct mailings are crucial in bypassing the biased big media to spread the pro-life message.

"To a great extent, recent events like the partial-birth abortion debate and the Lacy and Connor Peterson double homicide have lifted this fog of deceit and exposed the radical pro-abortion movement for what it is: a cold and calculating brood of blood-thirsty vipers bent on the destruction of fragile innocent human life for financial profit," exclaims Fox.

Simple Majority Vote Needed in Congress to Overturn Roe

"With the radical agenda of the pro-abortion movement now exposed, Fox is stressing the importance of focusing on an end-game strategy to strike at the heart of the abortion industry by destroying the tragic Roe v. Wade ruling itself.

With a majority vote, Congress could strike down Roe v. Wade by passing a Life at Conception Act defining human life as beginning at conception and entitled to equal protection under the 14th Amendment.

A Constitutional amendment banning abortion would require a two-thirds majority vote in Congress and would also need to be ratified by two-thirds of all states.

The National Pro-Life Alliance's affiliated Political Action Committee (NPLA-PAC) has made it their top priority in the coming elections to pick up that pro-life majority in Congress.

National Pro-Life Alliance members have led the fight to pass a Life at Conception Act by recruiting cosponsors for the bill and mounting a massive petition drive.

"I am very excited about NPLA-PAC's Campaign for a Pro-Life Congress and our prospects in the coming elections," says Fox.

"At the very heart of this campaign is our goal of overturning Roe v. Wade.

Life at Conception Act Remains Number One Priority of NPLA Members

"Our members have shown through the years that they are extremely dedicated to achieving that goal and have taken the lead in the fight to pass a Life at Conception Act.

"With that kind of commitment to the cause by National Pro-Life Alliance members, I'm confident the Campaign for a Pro-Life Congress can achieve enormous success and pull us closer than ever before to the support we need in Congress to make that goal a reality."

Members should call their Congressman and urge them to support H.R. 3069 and also urge their Senators to introduce a Life at Conception Act in the Senate.

Leaders can be reached in Washington by calling 1-800-839-5276.

Congresswoman Marilyn Musgrave has contacted more than 3.1 million pro-lifers nationwide to mobilize their participation in NPLA's campaign to pass a Life at Conception Act.

Partial-Birth Abortion Ban Signed by Bush

Victory Spurs NPLA Campaign for Life at Conception Act

November 5 marked a truly historic day as President George W. Bush signed into law the first federal restriction on abortion since the 1973 Roe v. Wade decision that legalized abortion throughout all nine months of pregnancy.

The fight to ban the gruesome abortion procedure began in 1995 when National Pro-Life Alliance members and pro-lifers across the country got behind Senator Bob Smith to pass the first ever Partial-Birth Abortion Ban in the US Senate.

NPLA Members Generated Over 1.1 Million Petitions in Favor of Ban

National Pro-Life Alliance members continued playing a leadership role by mobilizing more than one million pro-lifers nationwide behind the cause and thrusting the issue into the forefront of political debate.

Just this year alone National Pro-Life Alliance members generated over 1.1 million petitions, letters and post cards in favor of the ban, sending a clear message to Congress that this barbaric slaughter will no longer be tolerated.

Member contributions also made it possible for the National Pro-Life Alliance to put the heat on supporters of the procedure through multiple candidate survey results mailings and targeted television ads.

It is easy to understand why nearly 80% of the American people support banning the procedure.

In a partial-birth abortion procedure, an abortionist induces labor and delivers the baby almost completely.

With only the baby's head still remaining in the birth canal, the abortionist then punctures the baby's skull at the base of the neck and extracts the brains with a suction device.

Barbaric Procedure Kills Babies During Birth

The baby's skull is then crushed and the baby is delivered dead.

Contrary to the blatantly false claims by the abortion lobby, this procedure has been performed thousands of times per year in America to kill healthy babies of healthy mothers -- despite the fact that the American Medical Association (AMA) says it is never medically necessary.

The ink had barely dried from President Bush's signature on the ban before radical pro-abortion groups moved to thwart the will of the people by challenging the law in federal courts.

At least two federal judges have enjoined the ban and the Supreme Court is expected to hear the case in March.

Supreme Court to Rule on Partial-Birth Abortion Ban

The Court has ruled in the past against a Nebraska state law banning partial-birth abortion, claiming that because of the vagueness of some of the wording it was unconstitutional.

Yet, most recently, the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld Ohio's ban on the procedure and it is hoped that the Supreme Court will uphold the federal law with its revised language.

Life at Conception Act Needed to Protect All Unborn

As important as the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban victory is for pro-lifers, even if it is upheld by the Supreme Court, the same abortionist would be permitted to kill the same baby any number of violent ways.

For example, one procedure sometimes used after a miscarriage is also often used to kill healthy unborn babies.

In this procedure, known as "dilation

Radical pro-abortion groups have moved to override the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban, which passed Congress overwhelmingly. The Supreme Court is expected to rule on the case early this year.

and curettage" (D&C), the cervix is dilated so that the abortionist can fit a hook-shaped knife into the uterus.

The knife is used to cut the baby into pieces inside the womb.

Another brutal procedure called dilation and evacuation (D&E) is used to kill viable late-term babies capable of survival outside of the mother's womb by dismembering the babies and pulling them out piece by piece.

In yet another type of abortion known as a saline abortion, a needle is inserted into the mother's abdomen, a salt solution is injected and the baby's lungs and skin are severely burned and poisoned.

Life at Conception Act Would Protect All Unborn Babies From All Forms of Abortion

"This sad fact highlights the importance of passing a Life at Conception Act to end all abortion," explains National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox.

"Each and every abortion is, at its very heart, the brutal killing of a small and defenseless human life.

"We must continue to fight every day to ensure that all Americans are afforded the right to life guaranteed them by the Constitution," adds Fox.

NPLA-PAC Launches an Aggressive New “Campaign for a Pro-Life Congress”

Pro-Life Drive Targets Votes Needed to Overturn Roe v. Wade

On December 22, the National Pro-Life Alliance Political Action Committee (NPLA-PAC) officially launched its “Campaign for a Pro-Life Congress” with the goal of winning a true pro-life majority in Congress to overturn Roe v. Wade and end abortion-on-demand.

The ultimate goal of the campaign is passage of a Life at Conception Act that would define human life as beginning at conception and entitled to equal protection. A Life at Conception Act requires a simple majority vote in Congress to become law.

NPLA’s Candidate Survey Identifies Politicians’ Positions on Key Issues

The National Pro-Life Alliance is ratcheting up its nationwide lobbying program to pick up the votes in Congress required to send a Life at Conception Act to President Bush’s desk.

By lobbying candidates from both parties to take pro-life positions precisely when candidates are out looking for constituent support, NPLA’s Pro-Life Survey gives pro-lifers ammunition to put maximum pressure on the politicians to support the Sanctity of Life.

Each Congressional candidate receives NPLA’s candidate survey immediately following the filing deadline in their respective state.

The survey program forces candidates to take a stand on popular pro-life issues that pro-abortion politicians dread discussing, such as:

- A Life at Conception Act defining the unborn as “persons” entitled to protection under the 14th Amendment.
- Taxpayer funding of abortion and groups that provide or promote abortions.
- A ban on the deadly RU-486 “Abortion Pill.”
- The National Pro-Life Alliance-drafted Parental Notification and Intervention Act, which would give parents the legal right to stop abortions from being performed on minors.

Armed with the candidates’ survey responses and NPLA’s independent research on each candidate’s pro-life votes and public statements, members and other pro-lifers will be able to exert tremendous pressure on incumbents and wavering politicians.

NPLA-PAC Provides Both Direct and Independent Support for Pro-Life Champions

The National Pro-Life Alliance’s affiliated Political Action Committee has a history of going all out in support of committed pro-life candidates who are willing to fight to pass strong pro-life legislation such as a Life at Conception Act.

Wayne Allard (R-CO) received the maximum financial support permitted by federal law from NPLA-PAC in his successful 2002 Senate campaign.

Also receiving the maximum permitted financial help was New Jersey Assemblyman Scott Garrett who won his bid for the House of Representatives.

NPLA-PAC Looks to Build on Massive Success in ‘02 Mid-Term Elections

These candidates, along with twenty-nine other strong pro-life champions received much needed financial assistance from NPLA-PAC in their successful Congressional bids.

NPLA-PAC has been heavily involved in electing pro-life champions to Congress since its inception and has become one of the top two pro-life PACs in the nation after just one election cycle in operation.

In the ‘02 mid-term elections, 39 pro-life candidates received support from NPLA-PAC -- 31 of whom defeated their pro-abortion opponents.

NPLA-PAC contributions provided crucial financial help to thirty-one winning pro-life champions in their ‘02 Congressional Races. Among them, Senator Wayne Allard (R-CO) and Congressman Scott Garrett (R-NJ) have proven themselves to be strong allies in the fight to end abortion-on-demand.

By contrast, NARAL spent $10 million to support their top eleven pro-abortion Congressional candidates.

Ten of their eleven were defeated.

Pro-Abortion Groups Committed to Spending Millions in 2004

EMILY's List, another radical abortion-on-demand PAC, spent $21 million only to see three quarters of their hand-picked candidates defeated on election night.

"With radical pro-abortion groups like Planned Parenthood, NOW (National Organization for Women) and NARAL (the National Abortion Rights Action League) already unleashing their huge political war-chest, it is important that pro-lifers rally behind these pro-life candidates and give them the resources they need to succeed in their races," explains National Pro-Life Alliance Executive Director Mary King.

NARAL alone targeted pro-life candidates with $500,000 of television ads in just one week immediately following President Bush's signing of the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban.

The group is already unleashing an "aggressive multi-million dollar campaign" in the coming elections.

"The extremist abortion industry and radical Hollywood celebrities will spend literally tens of millions of dollars attacking pro-life candidates this election season," says King.

"Strong defenders of life are being viciously attacked and maligned.

"It is crucial that they have the resources they need to defend their good name and win their races."

National Pro-Life Alliance member contributions also enabled NPLA to run targeted television ads in the home states of sitting United States Senators who voted against the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban.

In the resulting controversy over their radical pro-abortion positions, these Senators took real heat from outraged pro-life constituents.

Pro-Life Gains in '02 Helped Make Partial-Birth Abortion Ban Possible

Two such Senators -- Jean Carnahan (D-MO) and Max Cleland (D-GA) -- lost their reelection bids late in the race at least partly because of the fallout from their support for partial-birth abortion.

The National Pro-Life Alliance is producing a new round of ads again this year to build support in Congress for a Life at Conception Act.

"There is no question that the activism of National Pro-Life Alliance members and pro-lifers across the nation is what made passage of the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban possible," explains King.

NPLA Member Activism During Elections Crucial to Ending Abortion-on-Demand

"By stripping radical pro-abortionists like Tom Daschle of their majority status in the Senate, pro-lifers put an end to their obstruction of the Ban and removed the last remaining obstacle to its passage.

Planned Parenthood and NARAL Unleash Militant Multi-Million Dollar Campaign in Coming Elections

“The partial-birth abortion victory is proof positive of what can be accomplished by pro-lifers when we flex our political muscle and work to defeat radical pro-abortionists in elections.”

In addition to NPLA-PAC’s direct role in elections, NPLA members play a crucial role by holding candidates accountable during the election season.

In NPLA’s most recent Member Directive, members ranked the NPLA Pro-Life Candidate Survey as the organization’s most important strategy by an overwhelming two-thirds majority.

“Our members’ activism in pinning down and winning over candidates during the election season is what sets NPLA apart,” says King.

“I simply cannot overstate the importance of these elections and just how much is riding on pro-life success.

“A swing of just twenty votes for or against our cause could very well be the difference in the fight to ultimately overturn Roe v. Wade in Congress by passing a Life at Conception Act.

In the coming elections numerous seats will be up for grabs in the pro-abortion leaning Senate.

Several Senators who have had pro-abortion votes will either be retiring after their current term or will face a pro-life opponent for their reelection, making key pro-life gains in the coming elections highly possible.

Key Pro-Abortion Senate Seats Vulnerable

National Pro-Life Alliance staff has identified 42 top Congressional races in which pro-life gains can be made.

Among these are:

Florida:

Pro-abortion Senator Bob Graham has not only dropped his bid for the Presidency, but has also announced that he will not seek reelection in the Senate.

The Republican primary is packed with candidates at least claiming to be pro-life.

One of these Republicans will most likely face the Democrat front-runner Betty Castor who is endorsed by the radical pro-abortion PAC -- EMILY’s List.

All of the Democrat candidates are pro-abortion.

Georgia:

Pro-lifers are looking to repeat their success in ‘02 when they were able to pick up the seat of former pro-abortion Democrat Senator Max Cleland.

NPLA-PAC helped pro-life Saxby Chambliss defeat the incumbent in a bitterly fought upset.

This time around Senator Zell Miller’s seat is up for grabs as he will retire.

One of the two Republican front-runners, Congressman Mac Collins, is strongly pro-life while the only Democrat in the race is pro-abortion.

Louisiana:

Senator John Breaux (D), who has generally voted pro-life, is not seeking reelection, leaving his seat up for grabs as well.

This is another race where pro-lifers can increase their strength in the Senate by electing a strong defender of life to fill Breaux’s seat.

Pennsylvania:

Pro-abortion Senator Arlen Specter will face a strong challenger in the Republican primary this year.

Specter is best known by pro-lifers for stopping the Supreme Court nomination of pro-life Reagan appointee -- judge Robert Bork, as well as other judicial nominees.

If Specter wins reelection, he will almost certainly assume chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee, where he will be able to block pro-life legislation.

Three-term Congressman Pat Toomey is running a strong race to de-throne the pro-abortion Senator and has energized pro-life voters in Pennsylvania and nationwide.

Toomey answered affirmatively all questions on his National Pro-Life Alliance Candidate Survey, including support for a Life at Conception Act.

Twenty Votes Could Decide Future of Legal Abortion

NPLA Executive Director Mary King reminds pro-lifers just how close the movement is to passing a Life at Conception Act.

“While the outlook may be bleak for the passage of a constitutional amendment banning abortion, which would take a two-thirds majority in Congress and would have to be ratified by three-fourths of all states, a Life at Conception Act can be sent to the President’s desk with a simple majority in Congress,” says King.

“With just a majority vote needed to pass this bill, pro-lifers should be encouraged that our ultimate goal is attainable if we just assert ourselves.

“It starts with the coming elections, where there is a wide field of swing seats that we can win over to our side.

“Also, with such great opportunities to gain pro-life seats in the Senate, we could go a long way toward securing the nomination of pro-life judges, perhaps even to the Supreme Court.”

Pro-abortion Senator Arlen Specter (R-PA) is widely blamed by pro-lifers for the pro-abortion Supreme Court majority.

“Mother Jones” Article Reveals Cold Brutality of Abortion

Highlights the Need to Ban All Abortion Procedures

Much has been made about the brutality of the gruesome partial-birth abortion method and the public is justly outraged that such a procedure could be legal in the United States.

However, not much is known by most Americans about other, equally grotesque forms of abortion that remain legal despite the passage of the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban.

National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox has been pointing out the complete and utter callousness toward human life revealed by a little known interview in the self-described pro-abortion magazine Mother Jones.

The article exposes the cold brutality of an abortion procedure whose gruesome nature is concealed in its technical name “dilation and evacuation” or “D&E”.

Cold-Blooded Killer Hailed as “Champion of Women’s Rights”

In this article published in the September-October issue of Mother Jones, Rebecca Paley interviews a renowned late-term abortionist.

Paley gushes over this “unlikely champion of women’s rights,” praising his dedication to performing late-term abortions, which even many other abortionists are not willing to do.

This abortionist has specialized in late term D&E abortions since the late ‘70’s.

“He was troubled by a recurring dream of a fetus trying to hold onto the walls of a uterus by its tiny fingernails.”

In case her readers are unaware why so few abortionists are willing to perform such abortions, Paley explains quite frankly:

“...as pregnancy progresses, the fetus increasingly resembles a baby. The procedure, as anyone who has seen it ... will attest, is gruesome.”

Rebecca Paley then precedes to treat her pro-abortion readers to a story about a time this abortionist once performed one such procedure to kill a set of twins:

“He intently leaned in closely and methodically pulled piece after piece of the fetuses out of the mother’s uterus, ignoring the attending staff’s whispers of horror -- ‘It’s twins. It’s twins’ --to each other.

“The intern reacted violently, running home, throwing up, and asking herself, ‘Is this right?’”

Late-Term Babies Legally Torn Limb From Limb

The article goes on to explain how even this abortionist, the so-called “champion of women’s rights,” had a serious moral compunction about performing abortions at first:

“And although [the abortionist] felt as though he was performing a necessary service, it weighed on his conscience.

“He was troubled by a recurring dream of a fetus trying to hold onto the walls of a uterus by its tiny fingernails.”

National Pro-Life Alliance President

Even if the Supreme Court upholds the ban on partial-birth abortion, abortionists will still be free to dismember and brutally kill unborn babies throughout all nine months of pregnancy.

Martin Fox stresses the need for a law that would ban all abortion procedures, not just the partial-birth abortion method.

“When a child can be legally dismembered inside the mother’s womb there is something gravely wrong.”

NPLA Pushes to Overturn Roe v. Wade and End All Abortion

“While the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban is an important first step, it’s an outrage that the same child can still be torn to pieces or otherwise destroyed by an abortionist with no legal recourse,” states Fox.

“A Life at Conception Act would secure legal protection for the unborn and would prevent an abortionist from killing an unborn child, regardless of what weapon he used.

“Pro-lifers cannot afford to rest until we have accomplished this goal and restored respect for the sanctity of all human life, born and unborn,” concludes Fox.

RU-486 Ban Introduced in Congress

Teen Death Underscores NPLA Demand to Ban Deadly Drug

As reported in the last issue of LifeLine, National Pro-Life Alliance President Martin Fox, along with Alliance members nationwide, called on Congress to move to ban the deadly RU-486 "abortion pill" following the death of an eighteen year old California girl.

LifeLine can now report that in response, 59 members of the House of Representatives have introduced legislation that would do just that. Fox is now urging all National Pro-Life Alliance members to contact members of Congress and insist that they sign on to H.R. 3453.

The renewed outrage over RU-486 was spurred by the tragic death of eighteen-year-old Holly Patterson, who received the drug from a local Planned Parenthood facility.

Shortly after taking the drug, Holly died from septic shock. Holly's parents were not even aware of her pregnancy until just hours before her death.

Bill Would Revoke Controversial FDA Approval of Abortion Pill

H.R. 3453 was introduced on November 6 with 59 cosponsors to immediately revoke the United States Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) approval of the deadly drug.

At press time for this issue of LifeLine, cosponsorship for the bill in the House of Representatives has reached 76.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved the drug in 2000 under pressure from the Clinton administration and the pro-abortion lobby.

In doing so, the FDA ignored its own guidelines and approved the drug without substantial safeguards and testing. The FDA also ignored evidence of the drug's deadly effects on women in other countries where the drug was legal.

RU-486 is made up of a two drug regimen. Searle, the maker of the second drug (misoprostol) firmly disavows abortion as a legitimate use for its drug and has written stern warnings to physicians about the drug's off-label use to induce abortions.

Furthermore, both Danco -- the firm that distributes the first drug in the regimen (mifepristone) -- and the FDA were forced to write letters of their own to all physicians who had ordered the drug after two earlier deaths and other serious complications.

NPLA Calls on Congress to Ban Chemical Abortion

As Martin Fox warned, the approval of RU-486 is opening the floodgates of pressure for other dangerous forms of chemical abortion.

Pro-abortion groups and Washington Bureaucrats are now urging the FDA to approve Levonorgestrel for over the counter use.

Holly Patterson died after being given RU-486 by Planned Parenthood.

Like RU-486, this drug chemically aborts unborn babies after conception. And like RU-486, Levonorgestrel is not without serious health risks of its own.

Side effects of Levonorgestrel include infertility, blood clots and even ectopic pregnancies -- which can result in death.

Martin Fox is again urging National Pro-Life Alliance members to contact their elected officials and help end this morbid fascination with "quick and easy" forms of murder.

"Scores of unborn children have been destroyed by RU-486. Unfortunately, Holly's is just the latest in a long string of lives shattered by this human poison.

"Any drug that was conjured up for the sole purpose of destroying innocent human life has no place in a decent society."

Fox is urging members to call their Congressman today at 1-800-839-5276 and urge them to support H.R. 3453.

National Pro-Life Alliance members are also encouraged to call the White House at (202) 456-1111 and encourage the President to reign in the bureaucrats in his administration who are seeking to make Levonorgestrel available over the counter.
